Trucking of nuclear waste to Van Buren continues

Truckloads of hazardous waste continue to travel throughout the area hauling toxic chemicals and nuclear waste matter to the Wayne Disposal Inc. landfill in Van Buren Township.

Wayne County circuit Judge Kevin Cox issued a temporary restraining order on Sept. 18, halting the disposal of hazardous or nuclear waste at the local facility in response to a lawsuit filed by Van Buren and Canton townships and the cities of Belleville and Romulus. Attorneys from Republic Services which owns Wayne Disposal petitioned the court during a hearing Sept. 24 to limit the restraining order to only waste from the Niagara Falls Storage Site allowing the continued disposal of toxic waste at the local site.

The hearing set for this week will determine whether the temporary injunction restricting the nuclear waste from the Manhattan Project will continue while the case is resolved.

The radioactive waste matter in dispute was to be hauled by truck from the Niagara Fall site where it had been stored from 1944 to 1952. The material was created during the development of atomic bombs during both World War I and II. A remediation of the New York site is planned to allow for future industrial development at the site, according to legal filings.

Currently, Wayne Disposal is receiving waste from an atomic development site in Ohio including radioactive materials from the 1940s and 1950s. That site, in Luckey, Ohio is currently under remediation by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. The material, according to legal documents, exhibits an elevated level of radioactivity. According to the Army Corps, more than 175,000 tons of radioactive soil and other materials have been hauled to Wayne Disposal over the past 6 years. Material from another Ohio chemical plant where uranium was formerly developed for atomic weapons is also slated for transport and disposal Van Buren.

Data from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency shows that fewer than 100 people live within a 1-mile radius of only four hazardous waste facilities outside Michigan, while Wayne Disposal has 2,660 residents within that radius — and more than 150,000 residents within 20 miles of the site.

> "That landfill is a mile and a half from the largest lake in Wayne County, Belleville Lake. It is near a middle school and a few parks."

State Rep. Reggie Miller has introduced a bill that would ban elevated radiation waste from Michigan landfills. Miller said multiple states have enacted similar legislation that has withstood legal challenges.

According to the Army Corps, the waste will not exceed 50 picocuries per gram of radioactivity. One picocurie is roughly equivalent to background levels of radioactivity naturally occurring in the environment, according to a prepared statement.

Melissa Quillard, senior manager of external communications for Republic Services said the landfill has safely received and managed radioactive material for many years.

"The landfill meets or exceeds all regulations and is designed to safely manage this type of material, which can be generated through a variety of industrial and other processes," Quillard said in a statement. Miller, however, disagrees.

"We are not discriminating; this is a health and safety concern. That landfill is a mile and a half from the largest lake in Wayne County, Belleville Lake. It is near a middle school and a few parks. It is in the most populous county in Michigan," Miller said.

Crowds vie for honors at annual horseshoe event

The annual One Romulus Community Horseshoe Tournament brought crowds of elected officials, city employees members of St. Johns Lodge #44, residents and friends to Elmer Johnson Park in the city recently. Mayor Robert McCraight showed off his tossing skill and awarded ribbons to the winners of the day. The crowd enjoyed refreshments from Grahams Gourmet Hot Dogs during the nearly perfect fall day. The event is set for Sept. 13 next year and officials urged residents to mark their calendar for a day of community fun..

School board members appoint member to fill term

Aamina Ahmed was appointed as the newest member of the Plymouth Canton Community Schools Board of Education during a meeting Oct. 1.

Ahmed will complete the term of Shawn Wilson who resigned from the board in August. Ahmed was selected from a field of nine applicants who were interviewed for the position, according to information provided by district officials. Three finalists were asked to return for a second interview with current board members who then selected Ahmed to fill the vacancy.

"We are grateful to all of the candidates who chose to apply to serve as a Board Trustee, and we are excited about the addition of Aamina Ahmed to the P-CCS Board of Education," said P-CCS Board President Lauren Christenson. "We firmly believe that her professional experience, previous service to the district, and passion for public education will bring an important perspective as we continue to work to provide students with an education that prepares them for life success."

Ahmed, a graduate of Wayne State University who currently works as a grant manager, previously served on several district committees, including the board policy committee. She is the mother of three who all attended schools in the district, according to a prepared statement.

"As a firm believer in the value of public education, I am excited to work collaboratively alongside the other Trustees and Superintendent Merritt to serve our district's students, families, and staff," Ahmed said.

"I'm looking forward to learning as a member of the board and finding ways to make the district even better than it is right now."

Ahmed will serve until December, 2026 when the term expires.

Canton Township celebrates completion of park path projects

Canton Township officials celebrated the official ribbon-cutting ceremony marking the completion of an extensive path improvement project in Canton Heritage Park funded by a Wayne County Parks Millage and the township.

The popular destination, which averages more than 500,000 unique guests each year, will now be greeted by newly renovated paths that will provide improved avenues for physical activity and enhanced outdoor experiences.

"It's important for our community to have enhanced park amenities that increase both safety and accessibility of these recreational areas where all ages and abilities can come together to spend time outside, and to enjoy all that Canton has to offer," said Canton Supervisor Anne Marie Graham-Hudak. "This path renovation project marks the first time in over 40 years that these paths have been majorly resurfaced and it would not have been possible without our partnership with Wayne County Commissioner Daub who worked together with Wayne County Parks Director Alicia Bradford to fund the majority of this project with Wayne County Parks Millage funding."

The path replacement project in Heritage Park included processing the old asphalt pavement and underlying sub-base materials, as well as the construction of a new 10-foot-wide asphalt path throughout 3,000 square feet of the park, as well as on the north side of the Summit on the Park. Further aspects of this $330,000 construction project, which was managed by the Canton Municipal Services Department, included the addition of several electrical service connection points, which were added throughout the park to provide electricity supply to previously 'off-grid' sections of the park to improve outdoor special events.

Canton Supervisor Anne Marie Graham-Hudak led the festivities, which included special remarks by Wayne County Commissioner Melissa Daub (District 10).

Canton Township elected officials along with Wayne County Commissioner Melissa Daub (District 10) at the official ribbon cutting ceremony celebrating the completion of an extensive path improvement project in Canton Heritage Park.

Familiar names seeking election in Plymouth and Canton

Voters in both Canton and Plymouth Townships will see some familiar names on the ballot Nov. 5.

In Canton, incumbent Supervisor Anne Marie Graham-Hudak, a Democrat, is being challenged by Republican Pat Williams, who held the office from 2026 until he was unseated by Graham Hudak during the 2020 balloting. The supervisors job pays about $155,000 annually.

In Plymouth Township, former Township Clerk Nancy Conzelman, a Democrat, is hoping to unseat incumbent Clerk Jerry Vorva, a Republican.

Conzelman formerly campaigned and served as a Republican but has changed her affiliation to seek the clerk's office as a Democrat.

The two are competing for the clerk's office which pays $120,000 annually along with a 15 percent contribution to a retirement plan.

On the Canton Township ballot:

Graham-Hudak is a 30-year resident of the township. She earned her Bachelor of Science degree in engineering from Boston University and earned a master's degree from Lawrence Institute of Technology. Prior to being elected supervisor in 2020, she served as a board trustee, on the planning commission.

She was employed as an engineer and project manager at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler auto suppliers. She is the current chair of the 35th District Court Authority, Vice Chair of the Western Townships Utility Authority, Vice Chair of SEMCOG and Treasurer of the Conference of Western Wayne.

Williams currently works as a Realtor and is a 40-year resident of Canton. He has both bachelor's and master's degrees and is active in multiple community organizations including the Chamber of Commerce and Canton Cares, a charity fund he founded.

On the Plymouth Township ballot:

Vorva, 72, is a 50-year Plymouth Township resident. He has degrees including a Bachelor of Science with honors degree from Madonna University and a Juris Doctor degree from the University of Detroit Mercy School of Law. He is a former Plymouth police officer, former City of Plymouth Commissioner, former state representative from the 20th District and a retired Realtor.

He has been township clerk since 2016.

Challenger Conzelman, a former Plymouth Township clerk, is a graduate of Marian High School, University of Michigan and Wayne State University Law School and is a licensed attorney. She has lived in Plymouth Township for 31 years.

She was formerly employed as a corporate attorney, vice president and as chief legal counsel for a mid-size automotive supplier. She is a Certified Michigan Municipal Clerk and received Government Financial Officers Association Excellence in Financial Reporting Award.
